

It's my Birthday!

a little differently
this year

...

This year, won't you please help me celebrate my birthday
by making a block
or donating a buck
(or both)
in support of
The 70273 Project?

Jeanne Hewell-Chambers
is gathering quilt blocks
from around the world (70,273 of them, to be exact)
to commemorate each of the 70,273 physically and mentally disabled people who were murdered by German Nazis in 1940-41.

MAKING THE BLOCKS:

The base of the block is white to represent the medical records - the only information used by assessing physicians to make their evaluations. On the base are two red X's to represent the death sentence because when two assessing physicians placed a red X on the medical record, the person's fate was sealed and they were immediately murdered. Because each block commemorates a perfectly imperfect person, blocks can be perfectly imperfect, too.

There are only other two guidelines:

~ finished blocks must be made in one of three sizes 3.5" x 6.5" (9 cm x 16.5 cm) or 6.5" x 9.5" (16.5 cm x 24.2 cm) or 9.5" x 12.5" (24.2 cm x 31.8 cm)

~ A completed and signed Provenance Form (release) must accompany the blocks.
